

TOMORROW DOMANI

Cacchiano Umbro was a delightful town in the luscious Umbrian countryside, famous for its fresco by Beato Angelico and its salami. It was a particularly rich town, until an earthquake destroyed everything, including the lives of its inhabitants. Sensitive Agostino, his family, friends and neighbors are all forced by fate to share and live the confusion caused by the earthquake. Without any formal barriers to protect the intimacy of their natures, these characters find themselves united in facing the emergency, made up of exhausting and unknown events.
